

SEES EUROPEAN PERIL IN REDS.

Churchill Points Menace in Reply to Critics.

Fears Huns may Join Bolshevik Alliance.

Defends Government's Military Plans.

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LONDON, March 31.—The House of Commons today passed the third reading of the military bill by a vote of 233 to 64, after strong criticism of the government on the ground of wasteful expenditure and violation of election pledges to abolish conscription.

Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary of War, made a vigorous reply to these criticisms. He described the broad band across Europe from the White Sea to the Caspian as smoldering of flames through the Bolshevik attacks and declared that Germany and Austria were likely to slide into hopeless anarchy or form a military alliance with the Bolsheviks.

The approximate distribution of troops, the Secretary said, would be as follows:

In Great Britain, 174,000; in France, 129,000; on the Rhine, 344,000. In Italy and adjacent regions, Mr. Churchill added, there would be 10,000 men, in order to adjust the lamentable differences which have arisen between Italy and the Jugoslavians, saying:

"We are keeping small forces of British troops there in many localities where the troops of no other nation would be welcome. We have been asked to do this in conjunction with our allies because it has been found that these troops could prevent troubles between the local populations merely by their presence during the period we are trying to settle things."

"This was, of course," continued the Secretary, "done at the request and by the desire of both parties, who felt that otherwise there might be a grave political situation and there were no troops anywhere engaged in a more merciful and beneficent task."

In the Middle East and the Caucasus there were 75,000 men, and he hoped the number might be substantially reduced in the near future.

In Mesopotamia, Great Britain had 30,000 men. After emphasizing the smallness of the number of troops actually in Russia, Mr. Churchill said that if Russia did not exist, the bill still would be necessary. In North Russia and Siberia there were something like 30,000 men, out of a total of 154,000 British troops comprising the contemplated army of occupation in the various areas during this trying period. From these 355,000 men it would be necessary to deduct 300,000 who were not combatants in any sense.

BESSARABIA SEEKS INDEPENDENCE.

(BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

BY CHARLES GRASTY.

PARIS, March 31.—Alexander Krepensky and Alexander Schmidt have arrived in Paris to present Bessarabia's protest against Rumanian occupation. These two delegates come to Paris with a direct mandate from the Bessarabian people, having been elected delegates by popular vote.

Their protest rests upon the principles of self-determination. Owing to its agricultural wealth, Bessarabia is considered a rich prize. It occupies the southwestern corner of Russia, between the Dniester, which divides it from Moldavian Rumania and the Pruth on the east, and as it is largely Moldavian in blood and language, Rumania has set a claim to its 7,000,000 acres of land and 2,500,000 people. The Rumanian occupation is causing deep indignation and unrest, the delegates assert. They say the Bessarabians are Rumanians, and will never accept Rumanian rule. Krepensky and Schmidt are urging a plebiscite for Bessarabia, and they say that if self-determination were confined to the Moldavian element only, which constitutes 47 per cent. of the whole population, the vote would be overwhelmingly in favor of Russian sovereignty, while naturally the other 52 per cent., comprising Slavs, Greeks, Armenians, Bulgarians and Jews would oppose Rumanian annexation.

CANADA ENTERS FOR SKY FLIGHT

Col. Colishaw Goes for Plane to Cross Atlantic.

Argentine Balloonist Also is Anxious to Try.

Captive Gas Bags to be Used Locating Fires.

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)

HALIFAX, March 31.—Col. Ray Colishaw, a Canadian aviator, sailed on the steamship Olympic for England today to bring back an airplane with which to enter the trans-Atlantic contest. He will attempt his flight from Newfoundland early in May, accompanied by Maj. McKeever and a wireless operator.

Col. Colishaw expects to accomplish the flight in twenty hours. His machine will be equipped with five motors of 400 horse power each capable of carrying fifty people and remaining in the air for thirty hours.

BUENOS AIRES, March 31.—Capt. Zuloaga, who crossed the Andes Mountains in a balloon in 1916, has asked the permission of the Argentine War Minister to attempt a flight across the Atlantic in an airplane. The captain is the Argentine military attaché in Paris.

STARTING DATE UNCERTAIN.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, March 31.—While final plans for the projected trans-Atlantic flight on naval seaplanes are rapidly taking form, the officers in charge have not decided on even a tentative date for the start. It was explained officially today at the Navy Department that the get-away would be controlled as much by windstorms current at Newfoundland as by clear weather.

BIGGEST, BEST NEWSPAPER.

Last Sunday's Mammoth Issue of "The Times" Its Greatest Achievement.

Last Sunday's issue of The Times, with 150 brimful pages, eight big sections and 5514 inches of reading matter, was the biggest and best all-around newspaper ever published by The Times. Stirring events in many portions of the globe were accurately and fully described. World-famous writers discussed the vital and burning issues of the day. Every realm of human interest was discussed. It was a newspaper for men, women and children in every walk of life, and thrilling with big news.

The first and only interview with the fallen Kaiser, by Harold Begbie, and published exclusively in The Times, was a remarkable document, inasmuch as it was the first utterance for the public of the dethroned monarch since he went into retirement. Alma Whitaker, writing from Australia, gave a graphic presentation of the effects of paternalism in that country. Medill McCormick, United States Senator-elect from Illinois, discussed forcefully and interestingly the League of Nations and some problems likely to arise from it.

William Howard Taft, "Tay Pay" O'Connor, Barney Oldfield, Harry Carr, Harry Brook and Harry Williams were among the celebrities contributing to the issue.

The entire great service of the Associated Press was supplemented by FIVE SPECIAL NEWS SERVICES and a score or more of exclusive articles from the pens of authoritative writers, covering every phase of the post-war conditions in the countries of the world.

NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS.

The Times' staff correspondents at Washington and Sacramento gave the big news of the day from the national and State capitals. The Times' own correspondents contributed the latest happenings all over the State.

The local news section was a remarkable example of the thorough manner in which the city's news is gleaned by The Times' city staff. From the announcement of the building of a subway from Los Angeles to Pasadena down to news briefs, the happenings of the community were ably and accurately presented and attractively arranged.

The editorial page, which has gained nation-wide fame and is widely quoted in newspapers and magazines, was fully up to standard with a ringing leading editorial, pithy paragraphs, a striking, timely cartoon and the caustic Lancer.

The realms of society, women's clubs, music and drama were interestingly treated by staff writers, and beautifully illustrated.

THE PEOPLE'S OWN DEPARTMENT.

The reading public took full advantage of "The People and Their Troubles" page. Here the people may come and present their views on timely topics.

The Farm and Tractor section of twenty pages was full from cover to cover with helpful, interesting articles of interest to agriculturists and horticulturists. Its eight pages of rotogravure illustrations added to its attractiveness.

A twelve-page section was devoted to automobiles and sports of all kinds. The articles were written by the best sporting writers in the West. A remarkably interesting feature was a birdseye-view map on the first page of the section showing in a striking way how to see the most in one day's automobile drive.

ROTOGRAVURE AND COLOR PICTURES.

The rotogravure section was a work of art. The Times has the only newspaper rotogravure plant west of the Rocky Mountains. The four-page comic section that is the first to be sought by the little ones was colorful and attractive.

The magazine section was one of the brightest and most interesting magazines ever issued with this or any other newspaper. There was not a dull paragraph in it and not an article that the reader would be willing to skip.

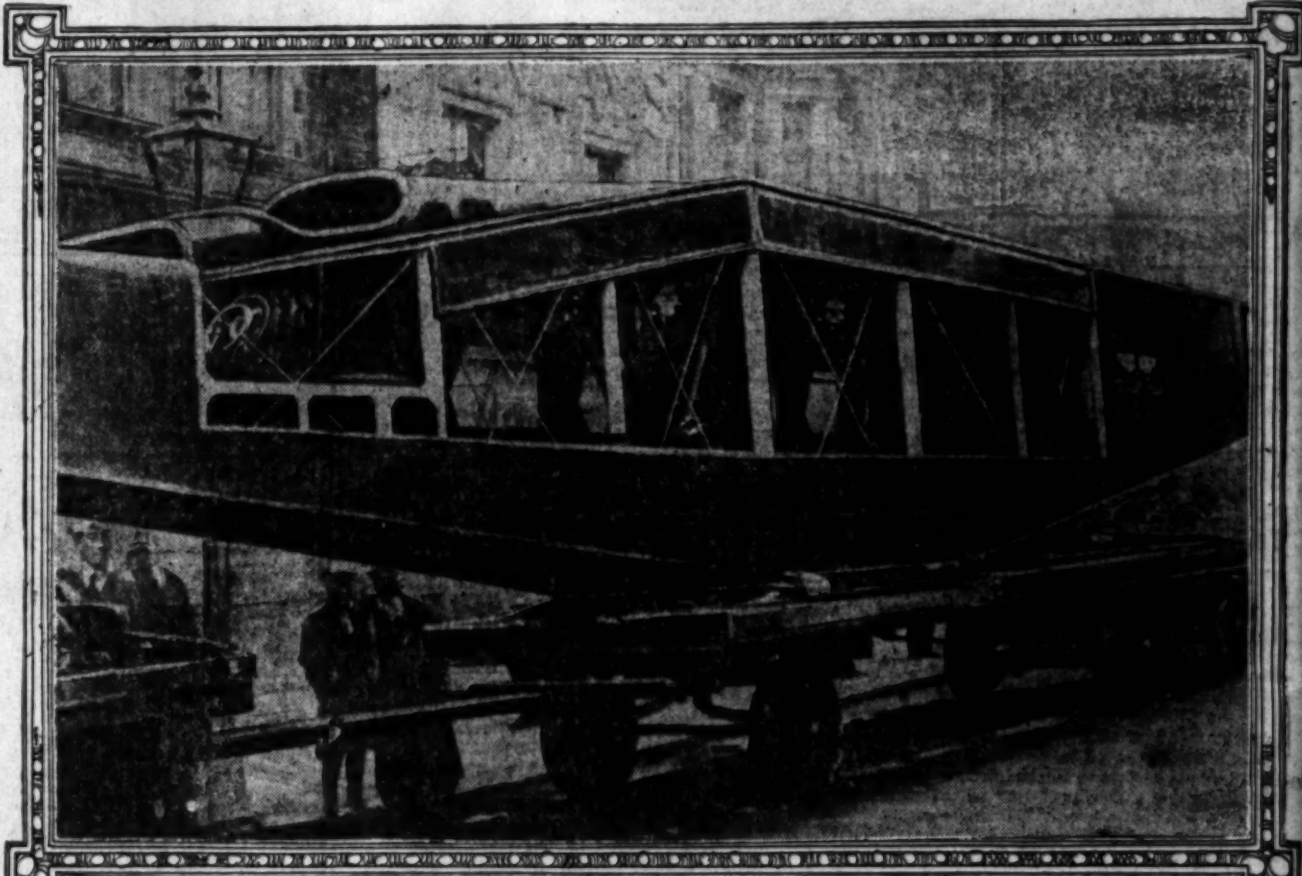

OVERWHELMING LEAD IN ADVERTISING.

The Times also carried a stupendous amount of advertising, 13,270 inches in all. Its local morning competitor printed only 7806 inches. In every big line of business The Times' supremacy was overwhelming, but most conspicuously so in the volume of classified advertising—that infallible barometer of newspaper prestige. The Times printed last Sunday the record-breaking, staggering total of 4117 inches of classified advertising. Its local morning competitor printed 1885 inches.

Last Sunday's total of 4117 inches of "want ads" in The Times is to be compared with 3981 inches for the Sunday previous and 3232 inches for the corresponding Sunday of last year. And only 1885 inches (much less than half the 4117 inches of The Times) in last Sunday's Examiner.

In giant bigness and in huge volume of business, last Sunday's Times stood at the head of all the world's great newspapers—a prize Los Angeles product, owned and managed in and for Los Angeles.

Giant Pullman of the Air Makes London Gasp in Surprise.

difficulties in the way of settling and prolonging the sufferings of those already bled white by horrors of war. Is not this a crime against an agonized world? Without doubt some kind of league will be adopted, but let us not forget that we still are at war. Would it not have been far better to see that the terms of peace were signed first; so the wheels of industry could again turn and starving millions be fed?

Apartment-House Meeting.
LOS ANGELES, March 30.—The Editor of The Times: Just word in reply to Mrs. A. E. Baggins' paragraph of her letter to the Times she says that if tenants are to be paid for their rent, they must pay for it. By "experience," she should know that tourists have to pay in advance their apartments, and in so doing are "lenderless" question as service they are to receive for the money. Among other things suggested is "heat to keep you comfortable"—which turns out to be heat about four hours a day and consequently if one remains in it is far from warm.

The American Spirit in Dentistry

Our High-Brows Chapter I.

Dentists fail because they don't have the American spirit.

They have the old European mind. The atmosphere of our colleges is like that of colleges in the Middle Ages in Europe. Students come out of it with notions not suited to American conditions.

The aristocrats of Europe laugh at Americans. They call us crude, unpolished, worldly, commercial. Their ridicule sometimes unnerves us. But it shouldn't.

If we have the spirit of commercialism, they have the spirit of the barbarous Middle Ages. If we worship wealth, they worship brute force and the glory and titles the sword gives.

The snobbery of European aristocrats too often passes, even in this country, for idealism. It is merely the contempt European lords feel for business and labor.

This kind of idealism our graduates carry from colleges and universities to learned professions—law, medicine, dentistry.

That's why they are called "High-Brows." We dentists belong to this class.

Some of us have moved away from our class-prejudices. I have been working for twenty-five years to bring dentistry to the door of the wage-earners and the middle classes.

SHOWS CITY IS BESIDE THE SEA.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
SANTA MONICA, BEACH, March 31.—Several days ago H. M. Rebok, Superintendent of Schools Here, wrote a letter to the Chamber of Commerce, asking why the word "beach" had been added to the name, "Santa Monica." In reply J. P. Gardiner, president of the chamber, today answered Supt. Rebok, stating that the word "beach" is used in order that tourists may know that Santa Monica is on the seashore. He says officially the name "Santa Monica" will remain, but for publicity purposes the commercial organizations like to have the fact that this is a city on the ocean always emphasized.

Dr. C. W. Decker, well known Los Angeles surgeon who entered the service at the beginning of the war and who has been making a splendid record in France, has been promoted to a colonel in the Medical Corps of the army. He is now commanding officer, Hospital Center, and commanding officer of all United States troops at Allier, France. Dr. Decker, who is a Los Angeles friend, he said that from present appearances he believed that he would soon be able to return home and resume his place as a civilian and a practitioner.

years, and didn't want to get mixed up in it." Following the making of a statement by a negro woman, a witness before the grand jury, who claimed that she had been promised "protection" by Mr. Woolwine yesterday afternoon, the grand jury, who are called in by the city attorney, and R. H. Johnson, negro member of the metropolitan squad, and close friends of the officers in the police department, will be called together at that time, to resume the graft inquiry.

MAYOR IS BACK.
Mayor Alden returned to his official duties at the City Hall yesterday after a few days' rest, and declared he was in fine condition. "I shall not ask for suspension, and I shall be on the job in the Mayor's office every day," said the Mayor. "I have received no direct information as to what the attitude of the Council will be when it meets Wednesday morning, but I do not believe it will take any action toward suspending me."

At the regular meeting of the club, yesterday afternoon, Fred W. Blanchard spoke on a future city center, arousing a ready response from the club members. Mr. Blanchard presented J. W. Mottley, of the Chamber of Commerce, who showed his plans for a center in the form of a district, a clear idea of a possible plan, which will include some of our rolling hills, and make use of properties already owned by the city.

Daniel H. Jones, of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke on "Los Angeles Forward," which carried the same content. Edward J. Treas, of the National Chamber of Commerce, who was a Food Administrator in Europe, will address the club at the next meeting.

Ebbel Club.
A flamboyant programme of rather a varied character was presented to the members of the Ebbel Club yesterday afternoon. Helen Brown Read, dramatic soprano, introduced to this city last fall, by the Ella Club, spoke accompanied by Celeste Harmon Ryus, club member, who also accompanied Mrs. Lois Pantages, violinist. Mrs. Pantages made a deep impression with her almost Slavonic temperament.

The audience liked her work, and enjoyed her singing. Dr. Georges Debelly, of France, spoke about the wounded soldiers and rather completely accounted for their behavior in the most harrowing relations, and "close-up" information.

A party of six Japanese were guests of the club, two of whom, Baron S. Goto and Dr. Nitobe, spoke briefly, giving a message from the Orient.

RESUMES LAW PRACTICE.
John W. Hart, who has been West Coast director of the Navy Department Commission on Training Camp Activities, announced yesterday that he had resigned from that position and has resumed the practice of law in the Citizens' National Bank Building.

INDUSTRIAL HOME ORDERED.
The Board of Supervisors late yesterday afternoon gave their approval of the fitting up of the county ranch property, El Retiro in the San Fernando Valley as a industrial home for girls under 21 years of age who have been before the courts for offenses. The board gave a hearing yesterday at which a number of women interested in the proposed home gave their views. Mrs. W. S. James, chairman of the board of the Industrial Home for Girls, made a plea for the women of the streets who, she said, are the prey of grafters. She made it clear that her desires for a farm for women offenders are not prejudicial to the work of the

POSTWAR WORK OF JAPAN TOLD.

Reconstruction Programme is Declared Extensive.

Economic Mission Members Address City Club.

Late Governor of Manchuria Praises Melting Pot.

Baron Shimpel Goto and Dr. Inazo Nitobe, who head an official Japanese mission here to study economic conditions, were guests at a luncheon of the City Club yesterday. Through an interpreter, Baron Goto said that the Japanese reconstruction programme is to be extensive. Japan, he declared, entered the war for the same reason as did the other Allies, also because of her treaty relations with Great Britain.

Dr. Nitobe, who is a former Governor of the Imperial University at Tokio, told of the benefit of the American melting pot to Japanese in this country. He spoke in particular of the rapid industrial advance of the Pacific Coast.

The guests at the luncheon included a number of prominent Japanese, among them Consul Ujio Oyama and Dr. Kyo Inui of the University of Southern California. Edgar W. Camp, the club's president, was toastmaster.

Last evening the visitors were the guests at a banquet given by the Japanese Society of Los Angeles at the Alexandria. Both Baron Goto and Dr. Nitobe spoke. Following the dinner the party adjourned to the Bible Institute, where they addressed an audience of Japanese on reconstruction problems.

During the afternoon the visitors were taken on a tour of inspection of the surrounding country. At noon today they will be the guests of honor at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Jonathan Club, and tonight a reception in their honor will be given at the City Club.

CHURCH WORKER DIES.
Mrs. Nellie A. West, for fifty years an active worker in the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, died at her home, 221 South Ditman street, yesterday following a protracted illness of pneumonia. Mrs. West, who was 71 years old, had been a resident of Los Angeles twelve years. She was born in Wisconsin. Mrs. West leaves a son, Guy West, of this city, and a daughter, Mrs. Floeste M. Quinby, of Alhambra. Funeral services will be conducted at the funeral parlors of French & Son, 2819 East First street, this afternoon. Burial will be at Mountain View Cemetery, tomorrow.

Later in the day Chief Butler ordered Hayes and Johnson removed from the Metropolitan Squad and transferred to the University division to be placed on beats.

To grand jury will not convene before tomorrow, according to a statement yesterday by Dist. Atty. Woolwine and it was not certain that night that the judicial body will be called together at that time, to resume the graft inquiry.

MAYOR IS BACK.
Mayor Alden returned to his official duties at the City Hall yesterday after a few days' rest, and declared he was in fine condition. HELP!

You may be able to defend yourself from a frontal attack, but how about it if you are held up from the rear?

Your body has to fight constantly against disease. It isn't always a fair fight, because constipation is a treacherous enemy that you usually don't recognize until too late.

Stagnating, poison-forming food waste in your large intestines, helps disease to attack you and hinders you from defending yourself. Such self-poisoning causes over 90% of human illness.

You may be held fast for months in the grip of constipation, trying vainly to free yourself by taking castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., in order to force the bowels to move. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies but you will be less able to defend yourself against the attack when it comes.

On the other hand, Nujol overcomes constipation and brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals. It acts gently and harmlessly, at all ages under any conditions. Take Nujol and constipation can't sneak up on you and cripple you when you least expect it. Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and write for free booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger."

Warning: Nujol is sold only in sealed Trade Mark. All bottles bearing the Nujol logo may be substituted.

THE SHELL GAME.

It seems pretty hard for either the scientists or profiteers to find a marketable substitute for the product of the little brown hen.

THE DAY.

They are figuring on having the Germans sign the peace treaty on Easter Sunday. This ought to revive impressions of the day whose memory the Germans have learned to neglect.

PETER PETERS OUT.

Some nature observers are complaining because the mocking birds are not singing as much or as lustily as is usual at this period of the year. Possibly this is also due to the high cost of living. Maybe they can't meet their notes.

A HOME QUESTION.

The cost of the war would build a nice little home for every family in the countries that had a part in it. Instead of that, some hundreds of thousands of homes were destroyed. Yet there are some who stop to wrangle over the adoption of a covenant for world peace.

OFF THE SHELF.

Likewise it is going to be hard to get the stuff for medicinal purposes. Lots of druggists declare that they cannot and will not pay the huge license fee that the government will exact from those who keep alcohol in stock. The old boys may as well make up their minds to do without. Even the doctor can't help them much if he is still a good fellow.

MAY BE A MAYOR.

Friends of Dr. Gandler are threatening to run him for Mayor of Los Angeles and in the event of his election thereby assure an enforcement of the so-called Gandler ordinance. They seem to think that that ordinance is about all there is of Los Angeles and that harbor, power and construction problems are more incidents of the city's development. Rather than take chances on securing an unsatisfactory Mayor they would nominate the father of their ordinance. They appear to think that the mere announcement would result in his election. It is admitted that some elections in Los Angeles have been easy, but it would take something more than an affection for one ordinance to put a candidate across at this time, even if that ordinance happened to be the momentary center of a storm.

AFTER THE ALIENS.

A. Mitchell Palmer, the new Attorney-General, is a stumbling block in the path of aliens. As a custodian of enemy property he obtained a fine line on foreign activities in this country. According to 'The Times' Washington correspondent he is going to ask from Congress additional laws or amendments which will enable his department to deal sternly with the apostles of anarchy and unrest. It was largely through the action of Palmer that the unpatriotic activities of Hearst and Brinsane came up for investigation and it is possible that he is not yet through with these wayward folk. Bro. Palmer proposes to deport all preachers of sedition if he has to create a barbed wire No Man's Land on an island in the Pacific to herd them. More power to his elbow. A Quaker is a mighty good fighter when he becomes aroused to a righteous cause.

THE TROUBLES OF EGYPT.

Egypt now has its war into the limelight. Such lamps can be spared from Paris are shining on the land of the Pharaohs. Winston Spencer Churchill warns the world that the whole of Egypt is in a virtual state of insurrection and a learned orientalist introduces us to another pan. He says Egypt is troubled with pan-Turanism, a branch of the same disease as Bolshevism.

It will not do to take Mr. Churchill too seriously. Britain's War Minister is like the rest of us; he not infrequently gets off on the wrong foot. He is prone to exaggerate. He had to make out a good case in the British House of Commons for the retention of a comparatively large army until the old world begins to settle down again, and he naturally laid stress on the troubles in Egypt as well as in Hungary and around the Black Sea.

It hardly seems probable that the uprisings in Egypt will be allowed to get out of hand. The British were able to keep that country on the right side during the great war and they can be relied on now to handle promptly any rebellion. The wily Turk, who has lost out in Egypt after centuries of misrule there, can also be relied on to foment all the trouble he can and he will be diligently seconded by German agents still scattered through the country. Nevertheless, Egypt, which was brought out of bankruptcy to prosperity by the British, is not likely to turn back to the Sublime Porte. The fellow knows on which side his bread is buttered and who supplies the butter.

WE ARE GOING TO HAVE A LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

THE words of the world covenant may not be such as would be penned under similar circumstances by Senators Lodge, Knox or Poindexter. The document may indeed not be in the form desired by the majority of American citizenship, but there will be a League of Nations in which America will be a prime factor and its constitution will be ratified by the United States Senate.

The reason is that when it comes to checking up on first principles the average American does not shirk his obligations or evade his responsibilities. He strives to live up to his advertising. He is the insistent friend of freedom—freedom of the individual and of the nation. His sword is the sword of justice and his scepter the rule of right under the law. He has proclaimed that governments derive their powers through the consent of the governed. By his participation in a world war he has destroyed the rule of autocracy and he cannot now break faith with those who are groping for freedom and the light.

Before the war there was a powerful sentiment for a world covenant and American millions had built a temple for world peace and justice at The Hague. There was a League to Enforce Peace, founded upon a community of nations and a great many men in public life were enrolled with its membership.

If America was eager for a world league then, why not now?

If America had not entered the war there might have been some small warrant for her withholding active participation in a League of Nations. But having furnished the men and money to conclude that war and having put her blood and soul in that terrible enterprise, there remains no flicker of excuse for her remaining aloof from a union of governments pledged to preserve the peace of the globe. It should indeed be a matter of pride to achieve a leadership in the organization.

II.

FOR a generation the rest of the civilized world has been tolerant but suspicious of America and Americans. We were a nation of money-grubbers, whose eyes were centered upon the goddess of the dollar. Nobody really loved us, but everybody took our coin. The war has changed all this. If we had steered an even course and kept on selling munitions to France, or England, or whoever had the price, we would today be cordially detested by Englishmen and Frenchmen as well as Germans. But when the hour struck we entered the war for a cause, a principle, an ideal, and now all the peoples of the earth—both great and small—look up to us as the only nation that can approach a world parliament unselfish and disinterested. Of course we are neither unselfish nor disinterested, but we are great enough and rich enough to achieve that spirit and, therefore, men of all races place their cause to our keeping in confidence and respect.

Without any special effort on our part we have become the Big Brother of the universe and those who would falter in acceptance of this impressive trust are almost craven.

Unless America actively and permanently participates there can be no League of Nations worthy of the name. Without the League of Nations there can be no satisfactory assurance that the peace of Europe can be maintained for half an hour and any peace would be merely preparation for war—a paper truce or armistice. These contentions are admitted by practically every man in public life, yet we find many of them haggling over the terms of the covenant to an extent that might endanger the agreement and does impair the standing of the American in the eyes of the world.

It is much as if Sir Galahad should descend to the petty bargaining of the junk-buyer!

III.

BUT, glory be! There is a getting together. Most of those who have opposed this particular covenant usually declare that they favor a League of Nations of some kind. Undoubtedly they are largely sincere and feel that they are striving to safeguard the interests of the republic. They may quibble, but are not wholly hostile to the movement. In the best sense the opposition has been of some value. It has been illuminating. It HAS DISCLOSED SOME DEFECTS in the original document. Holes are visible in the garment. These may still be mended. The covenant is neither inviolate nor unalterable until it has been approved and signed by the contracting powers. Some of the proposed modifications are desirable and will be made. The terms of the original covenant come far from having the unqualified approval of 'The Times', yet this newspaper would not imperil the speedy adoption of the agreement or impair the lofty reputation which America now holds in the world's councils by any feverish contention over nonessentials. Let us get the thing as nearly right as we can and as quickly as we can, and even then it may still be "porous," as Senator Lodge asserts. The people of the United States are indebted to such constructive critics as ex-President Taft, Elihu Root and Senator Lodge, who have suggested desirable and protective and strengthening changes in the covenant for the consideration of the covenanteers.

The delegates are approaching the amending process in the right spirit and may be depended upon to frame a league constitution that the United States Senate cannot possibly reject.

We are going to have a League of Nations and everybody is going to be either happy or content over it—that is, everybody with the possible exception of Senators Poindexter, Borah and Reed. Congressman Osborne will be for it, because he was for a league in the first place and is now merely a dissenter to some of the terms. He will be satisfied with the rest.

Statesmen who quote the warning of the fathers of the republic against entangling alliances will be soothed, for by no process of analysis can an alliance for the conservation of peace be considered an entangling one. There's as much difference as there is between an insurance policy and the network of barbed wire in No Man's Land. That was an entangling alliance and if George Washington had been alive in these days he would have been one of the first to tackle it.

IV.

HON. ELIHU ROOT, in his able analysis published exclusively in yesterday's Times, cites the fact that without a league the people of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, numbering less than 130,000,000, would be confronted by the warlike peoples of Germany, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria, Russia and Turkey, numbering 280,000,000, and now disposed to return to lawless violence and barbarism. Order must be restored. "Under these conditions," continues the distinguished statesman, "the United States cannot quit. It must go on with the performance of its manifest duty."

The ex-Secretary of State does not recognize the initial draft of the agreement as the paramount document. He says it is tentative in character and is so understood by those who submit it. They themselves are seeking judgment and counsel and it may take some years before the league could be operating under a perfect covenant. Mr. Root himself suggests amendments that seem vital. One would amplify the judicial character of the league conference and sustain the methods and practice of compulsory arbitration, and the other would firmly guarantee the perpetuation of the Monroe Doctrine on behalf of the American signatures. With this understanding Mr. Root adds: "It will be the clear duty of the United States to enter into the agreement." On all these points the views of Mr. Root quite coincide with those of ex-President Taft.

It is not only the duty but the ardent desire of most thoughtful Americans that a world league of peace shall at once minister to a turbulent and uneasy world.

PICKING THE CANDIDATE.

One of the joys of the privileges of the great American voter is picking the candidate. Not a year goes by but this delightful satisfaction comes to him, and in some places, her. One year it's a President he may be naming, next a Congressman, then the State bunch and every two years he has a chance at naming a Mayor.

Just now Los Angeles citizens are giving the "once over" to those who have announced their Mayoral ambitions and waiting with interest for others to appear. But, although it's early yet, the real interest is beginning to center about who will be who in 1920. In other words, who's going to be the next President?

If anybody can pick the right man now, then that person is a wonder. Let's take our friends the enemy. Leaving President Wilson out of the matter, for he won't run again unless something happens to the League of Nations, who else is there? The Democrats haven't a single strong man in sight. McAdoo, Baker and Gov. Cox of Ohio have been mentioned and so has Champ Clark, but not one of 'em has a ghost of a show.

The Republicans, on the other hand, have an overabundance of riches. There are Hughes, Taft, Chairman Will Hays of the National Committee, Gen. Pershing and Gen. Wood, to name only five. And don't dismiss the generals lightly from your mind. Remember the soldier vote. It's tremendous.

Of course much and anything can happen between now and 1920, but it's interesting and amusing to speculate on who may be the candidates and certainly it affords relief after the daily portion of horror that Europe continues to hand out.

A Thought for Today.

PRIMARY TRICKERY.

The conscientious members of the Legislature from Southern California have failed in their efforts to secure the enactment of an honest and equitable direct primary law. The State machine has again triumphed over a valiant but unorganized opposition. Pledges made by Gov. Stephens while a candidate for office respecting an amended primary law have been evaded, not fulfilled. The Breed act amends the present law; but the amendment made is not in the interest of good government.

Assemblyman Carter of Los Angeles lashed the administration-labor union forces unmercifully during the last day of debate. He told them that a thing which is made a felony in nearly every State of the Union they were writing into the law; and reminded them that the stain of murder, theft or fraud cannot be removed by legislation.

"Re-enacting a law that permits an I. W. W. or a Bolshevik to run on a Democratic or Republican ticket without revealing his political identity," charged Mr. Carter, "is placing a premium on chicanery and fraud." Assemblyman White of Los Angeles introduced an amendment providing that the party registration of each candidate should appear on the primary ballot after his name. This amendment offered a fair test of the sincerity of the administration in relation to a fair primary law. Under the Breed act a voter can receive at the voting booth only the primary ballot of the party named on his registration blank. On that ballot the names of the candidates appear in alphabetical order. But there is nothing to show to what party any candidate belongs.

Asserting that the primary ballot is intended for the information and convenience of the voter, the genuine Republicans urged that the party registration of each candidate should follow his name. The justice of such a provision is self-evident. In the last election a number of radicals in California registered as Bolsheviks. Any one of these can get his name printed on a Republican primary ballot simply by circulating a petition and securing a few signatures. His name then appears in the Republican list, with nothing to reveal his real party affiliation.

No member of the administration forces attempted to justify on the floor of either House the refusal of the administration to permit the candidate's party affiliation to appear on the ballot. Their floor leader in the Senate said that most of the electors knew from other sources the party affiliation of the candidates before they went to vote. But if the registration were placed on the ballot then everyone would know. Concealing the registration to trap the ignorant and the unwary is a vile political trick, such as is resorted to only by the most unscrupulous politicians.

In two fundamental features the Breed act is absolutely indefensible. It permits the candidates of one party to run on the ticket of another party without revealing their political identity. This is simple non-partisanship, another form of the 1915 non-partisan act that was beaten by the vote of the people of California in a referendum election. It permits the candidates of one party to write the party platform, barring from the party convention all but the successful primary candidates. This makes the platform not an expression of principle by the membership of the party at large, but a mere device of candidates to catch votes. The object of this provision, too, is apparent. It is a palpable trick to make the members of a party disgusted with party platforms and prepare them for non-partisanship in State elections.

When Gov. Boyle of Nevada was in Sacramento earlier in the week he told the members of the Legislature frankly and freely that the primary bill was a vehicle for the conveyance of fraud.

"A candidate can have but one party and one ticket in our State," he said. "We fight and vote square in Nevada." The alleged

Republican party in California has fallen low indeed when a pretended Republican majority in the Legislature passes primary bills that even the Democracy of Nevada can hold up to scorn.

But it is the present primary law that makes such a selection of near-Republicans possible. There was but a single Republican in the whole Assembly, not affiliated at some time in his political career with the Progressive or Democratic party, who voted against the Republican amendment to the Breed bill. That was Doran of San Diego. Doran has a bill in the Legislature classifying cotton-tail rabbits as predatory animals. The Governor vetoed that bill two years ago and Doran is more interested in its enactment this year than in an honest primary.

There the reports from Sacramento to that independent members of the Legislature will hold a conference before adjournment and consider plans to call an unofficial bi-party State convention for the purpose of drafting an honest primary bill for submission to the voters through legislative legislation. The Times is opposed to direct legislation on principle; but we confess that if California cannot improve on the Legislature of the last eight years the time is approaching when the Legislature itself must be abandoned as a one-time institution that has ceased to function.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

APRIL.

When April comes the welkin hums with cries of human gladness; the winter's past and spring at last has come to our sad hearts.

The birds return with songs to burn, and frolic in the maples, the farmer sows his seeds in rows, and hay and other staples. When blizzards whoop around the coop it's hard to keep on smiling; but April days soothe weary eyes, with zephyrs most beguiling. We're tired and worn ere to his bourns old winter has departed; his snow and sleet have chilled our feet and left us broken-hearted. Despair he springs, but April brings a salve for all our bruises; the wintry blast is quelled at last, and all the world enthuses. The ancient cry of weary eyes forgets his many winters, and hops along with laugh and song, a caution to all sprinters. The man of aches whose groaning makes a discord of existence forgets disease and laps the breeze that comes from some blue distance. The chronic grouch forsakes his couch without a heet or bellow, and throws his hat and kicks the cat and seems a sprightly fellow. Oh, April ends our woe, my friends, the woe that winter brings; the smiling gnat knows sweet content and like a dinger-dinger.

GROUCHY REMARKS.

BY HARRY CARR.

If the All Highest had listened to his grandma, Queen Victoria, when she told him about his naughty uncle, King Edward, there wouldn't have been any world war.

At least that is the way our old friend, the Kaiser, accounted for all this trouble in the interview published exclusively in 'The Times' on Sunday morning.

All of which goes to show that a peacock is all wrong when he tries to sing.

Right down in the bottom of our hearts there were very few of us who didn't feel a little in awe of the All Highest in the old days before the war, when we used to look at his pictures dressed up like a plump horse or a grand opera tenor.

Even since the war the whole world has listened with a certain attentiveness of attention distinctly flattering to the Grand Poo Bah of the Central Powers.

And now at last he has opened his lips and talked. And it sounds like a squeal from an invalid white rat plaintively objecting to the scarcity of the cheese.

I don't believe that the janitor of a German hotel could be found to equal the remarks of Mr. Hohenzollern for silly bromidiol insanity. It sounds like the mutter of an old woman.

Wilhelm blames it on King Edward in one breath; in the next he gives a clean bill of health to all the royal boys and says it was some mean common scrub in the Russian government.

Some mean men in Germany made him write that letter of Boer War fame, which offended England. Then some mean men in England conspired with some mean men in some other government and so on.

Then he takes it all back in one swoon and says that he was the grand high executioner and king of the pantry shelf in Germany; that he is responsible to no one, and never was responsible to any one but God; that this whole affair was a little matter arranged by the Creator and himself and nobody else's business.

The most important part of the whole interview is the place where the Kaiser acknowledged that he made a fool of himself. Wilhelm seems to be getting on a little, anyhow.

It takes considerable singleness of purpose to be able to read the Kaiser's interview seriously. He contradicts himself every other sentence.

England started the war, he says, out commercial jealousy of Germany; but, again, England had nothing to do with bringing on the war except as an innocent bystander dragged into the fray.

In one paragraph the ex-Kaiser was his head with forebodings as to what will happen in the world if it is deprived of the magnificent German discipline; in the next he says that Edith Cavell was executed because a German general got so full of booze he didn't know what he was doing.

England, he says, would never have been in the war at all except that Russia dragged her in. In another place in the interview he says that England was preparing to invade Germany; that is why the Hunns had to invade Belgium themselves.

The German Foreign Office has a great quantity of letters, and in the form of pamphlets providing the German government with an alibi for every evil deed in their record. It looks very much as though Wilhelm had been reading some of it and got the books mixed. He's all wrong. He is using the Austrian alibi for the German, and the English for the French.

As for instance, when he says the Lusitania was sunk as revenge because the English were trying to starve the German babies. This is the alibi supposed to be used in explanation of the Zepplin raids. The excuse for the Lusitania is that Germany had to stop the shipment of ammunition. When he says that the sinking of the Lusitania was a great mistake, Wilhelm forgets that he decorated the officer in command with a special medal designed for the purpose; not to mention giving him the Iron Cross.

Well, well, the captains have departed and the kings will not linger long.

Small potatoes and few in a hill. Poor little Nicholas was a comparatively harmless member of the band. Every morning he fussed around his rose garden; in the afternoon he retired with his bottle of red eye and was seen no more. George of England busies himself with laying cornerstones and padding around bazaars; he is harmless, too, well enough to cock them all to sleep. Wilhelm is a little showman as regards one withered arm; but he did very well as an ornament—something to dedicate band pieces to. Something of the kind is needed in every country. You have to have something to name mountains and steamboats after. Otherwise some politician named Snooks bobs up and wants them named for him and it offends the euphonies.

The trouble with the Kaiser was that he took himself as a real King. Nobody else in Germany did. The real devil machines in Germany were managed by far cleverer and more dangerous men: the All Highest was right to that extent.

Mr. Hohenzollern says he will not "consent" to be tried (very few criminals do by the way). He says he will offer no defense to any earthly tribunal. Yet he has offered a defense. His defense, as shown by this interview, is clear:

That he was a damn fool and didn't know any better. And it seems as though he had virtually proven his case.

The assorted baseball teams trained in this locality departed themselves yesterday as they say fit.

The Cubs and Tigers chose to play a ball game each. The Angels, not being so moved, practiced by themselves. That is, in the morning.

In the afternoon they were off to the game. The Cubs, led by Killefer, figured their great showing on Saturday and Sunday.

They defeated them to a half holiday, which was a fair, broad and equitable manner of looking at the situation.

This gave Mr. Morley one more chair than usual to sit in. Mr. Powers has been gone before, but this is the first time that Mr. Culp ever resigned. Hence the extra vacant chair that must be occupied.

In the afternoon the Tigers cleaned up with the All-Stars, 12 to 1. Bill Geick sent in Jess Buckles and let the big youngster go the full nine innings. Geick stated that he will use either Dell or Fromme against the Chicago Cubs at Washington Park on Thursday.

This will be the only opportunity to see the Tigers in action against high-class competition until after the season starts, as they open in Salt Lake.

SPORT GOODS FOR SOLDIERS.

Jack Case, former Olympic club hurdler and at present a director of athletics under the War Department army recreation board, is in town on official business. Case is stationed at Camp Kearney but is now on a tour of the army posts of California.

As a result of the sudden cessation of hostilities, athletic equipment purchased for the troops at Camp Kearney exceeds the demands of that post at the present time. Case is distributing this surplus equipment among the minor encampments of the State from the Presidio at Monterey to the cavalry post at Calixto.

He visited Fort MacArthur and the Arcadia balloon station yesterday and will proceed northward today or tomorrow.

Matchmaker Wadhams of the Vernon Athletic Club has lined up a card for tonight that looks like a winner, from start to finish. If there is a bout on the program that isn't filled with action, then it will be a bout that does not live up to advance notices.

HARD HITTER. Danny Kraemer, the hard-hitting little 120-pounder, will meet Young Farrell in the main event. It looks like a big proposition for Farrell to swing, but he has beaten Mando, Roselli and Frenchie, so he has earned a chance at bigger game.

Farrell is very popular at Vernon and the fans will probably be for him, but Kraemer has made the biggest kind of a hit in his two starts at Vernon and will be well backed to beat the local boy.

For the first time since the four-round game opened, a colored boxer will appear, when Danny Edwards meets Kid Mendie. Edwards is a San Francisco boy, who has beaten the best of the little fellows around San Francisco, and if he can polish off Mendie he will be in line for a bout with the winner of the Kraemer-Farrell bout.

Sailor Kraemer, as game a little fellow as ever stepped into a local ring, will meet George Spencer of San Francisco. Like Edwards, Spencer has beaten the best boys in the north and there is considerable interest in his bout with the tough sailor lad.

The biggest boxers on the card will be Elmer Brown and Budd Starr. Brown boxed several times nearly a year ago, and then entered the army. Starr was at American Lake for several months, and acted as an assistant to Willie Ritchie, boxing instructor at the camp.

Since being discharged, about a month ago, Starr has been training at Pasadena, and tonight's bout will be in the nature of a try-out for him, as he wants to get on with Cliff Jordan or some other good middleweight card. Brown has a real knockout wallop, but he has also been upset a number of times. It looks like a slugging match, from start to finish.

Frankie Monroe is matched with weight, the Pasadena featherweight. He is always put up on a tough fight. Monroe has been one of the best of the preliminaries boys.

The curtain-raiser will be between "Red" Brennan and Joe Gomez. The former is a San Francisco boy, who is said to have put up some good bouts in the north. He accepted the curtain-raiser for tonight so that he could show his class, as he hopes to earn a place higher up on the card.

The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock.

JOHNNY KILBANE SCORES KNOCKOUT.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, knocked out Johnny Mealy of Philadelphia in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout here tonight. The knockout blow was a short right to the jaw.

Both men took it easy in the first round, but Kilbane, after his opponent from the opening of the second and sent him to the floor for the count after one minute and twenty-one and one-half seconds of fighting.

BRITTON BOUT IS CALLED OFF.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) TULSA, Okla., March 31.—The boxing contest between Jack Britton, welterweight champion, and Willie Laughlin, scheduled to be held here tonight, was cancelled because of the illness of Britton.

STAR BOWLER DOESN'T SHOW.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) TOLEDO, March 31.—The feature piece of the American Bowling Congress tournament for today was dispensed with and a large gallery was disappointed when John "Count" Gengler of Chicago failed to appear in his doubles and singles events.

It was announced by officials that Gengler was taken ill, but that he would bowl tomorrow if his condition improves.

Gengler bowled with the Bud Howe five of Chicago last night and totaled 593, with games of 171, 194 and 226. He was expected to go strong for the all-event prize today.

The highest score of the day in the doubles was the 1208 bowled by A. Zuelendorf and J. Keuther of Milwaukee.

G. Becker of Milwaukee bowled the highest score of the day in the individuals, with 245, 198 and 224 for a 667 total, three pins below Jimmy Smith of Milwaukee, who holds tenth place.

JIMMY WILDE
GETS VERDICT.

Is Given Decision Over Joe Lynch at London.

Starts Out Heavy Favorite Over American.

Yank's Strong Showing Almost Puts Him Even.

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.) LONDON, March 31.—"Jimmy" Wilde, the British dexterity champion, tonight defeated Joe Lynch, an American boxer, on points in a fifteen-round bout.

LONDON, March 31.—The Prince of Wales, Prince Albert and Lord Londale witnessed the contest, which took place at the National Sporting Club. It was a fast and stubbornly-fought battle throughout.

Wilde started a 3-to-1 favorite, but Lynch was doing as well in the ninth round that the betting fell to even.

In this and the following rounds Wilde was badly shaken by heavy punishment, but fought gamely and recovered in the fifteenth. The American finished the fresher of the two, and though Wilde won on points, he had a close call.

The verdict seemed somewhat of a surprise to many present, and there was some adverse comment. Wilde was giving Lynch about sixteen pounds in weight.

At the close of the fight the Prince of Wales congratulated both men, and said it was by no means unusual that Anglo-American friendship, which they had welcomed throughout the war, became cemented for all time.

AFTERMATH OF GOLF TOURNEY.

MOST OF THE WINNERS STAYING IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA FOR A WHILE.

Douglas Grant, winner of the local title and State champion, accompanied by Mrs. Grant, will spend a week here visiting friends. The champion is one of the most enthusiastic boosters for the Los Angeles course since the new greens have been installed.

Paul Gardner, runner-up in the title tournament, has returned to Coronado, but will be a frequent visitor according to his present plans.

ALL LEAVING FOR STREAMS.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) SANTA BARBARA, March 31.—Hundreds of trout fishers are leaving tonight for the Santa Ynez River, Sisquoc and other streams of the county. Reports from every section indicate that the best fishing in many years opens tomorrow. The streams are well stocked and the trout are said to be larger than usual. All fishing license records have been broken in the county during the past two weeks and tackle sellers have had a constant run on their stocks. The Ventura River will also be a popular stream tomorrow. The local auto club announces that San Marcos road, the short cut to the upper waters of the Santa Ynez, is in fairly good shape and safe for careful drivers.

TUESDAY MORNING.

MERRITT'S CASE TO JURY TODAY.

Cook's Testimony Admitted Federal Trump Card.

Defense Attacks Credibility on Score of Prejudice.

Prison Term or a Fine may Follow Conviction.

Will the testimony of Miss Anna Hare, a cook, be sufficient to condemn her former employer, Hulet C. Merritt, the Pasadena millionaire, as a felon before a jury in the local federal court, today? Summed up, the case, as it will finally be presented to the jury for decision today, follows:

In June, 1918, did Mr. Merritt, calling the woman into his den, at the family home, 99 Terrace drive, ask her to agree to go as cook on the yacht of his son-in-law, Paul Haupt? Mr. Merritt admits he did, but did he tell her that if she went along she would be expected to come back for the week-end and prepare fruit for canning? She says he did. He denies it. Did Merritt tell her on that occasion, speaking of putting up the fruit, that there was plenty of sugar across the street, meaning 407 Alcott place? She says he did. Mr. Merritt denies it.

The morning session of the court was confined to the conclusion of the testimony of the character witnesses. Those appearing in behalf of the government, were: Isaac B. Newton, William A. Barker, Harrison A. Albright and Henry Newby. The following witnesses testified that Mr. Merritt was a man of truth, and entitled to full credence: Ex-Judge Willis I. Morrison, Henry Sherry, Edgerton Shaw, David A. Herlihy, Samuel McCall Kennedy, Fred C. Shipman, Dr. Andrew Stewart Lobingier, B. O. Kendall, R. D. List and William E. McVay. If Mr. Merritt is convicted on the food hoarding charge, he may be sentenced to not exceeding two years in the Federal penitentiary at McNeil Island, or fined not to exceed $5000.

Assistant United States District Attorney Palmer, in his address to the jury, yesterday, claimed that everything pointed to the truth of the testimony of Miss Hare. He then proceeded to attack her testimony as coming from a discharged employee, and not entitled to any credence.
